DETAILED ACTION

This application is a 35 U.S.C. 371 (national stage application) of PCT/US04/19441, filed 06/16/2004, which claims priority to Provisional Application 60/480,540, filed 06/20/2003. Claims 1-13, 16, 18, 20, and 22-26, as amended, are pending.

Election of Species

1. This application contains claims directed to more than one species of the generic invention. These species are deemed to lack unity of invention because they are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1. The species to be elected are as follows:

- Define one specific condition to be treated and the effect to be achieved, with claims 1-11 and 24 reading on this species;
- Define one specific COX-2 inhibitor, with claims 12, 13, 16, 18, and 20 reading on this species;
- Define one specific oral contraceptive, with claims 22 and 23 reading on this species; and
- Define one specific GnRH-agonist, with claims 25 and 26 reading on this species.

2. The species listed above do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1, because the species lack the same or corresponding technical feature. Specifically, International Application Publication WO 98/22101, pp. 3, 4, and 53, published 5/28/1998, supplied by Applicant on the IDS dated 12/7/2005, teaches the use of an effective amount of a COX-2 inhibitor in the treatment of endometriosis, anticipating all the elements of claim 1, the sole independent claim. Further, oral contraceptives and GnRH agonists are well-known in the art. Therefore, under PCT Rule 13.2, the species lack the same or corresponding technical feature.

Applicant is required to elect a single disclosed species for prosecution on the merits to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. Currently, claim 1 is generic.

3. Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include (i) an election of a species to be examined even though the requirement may be traversed (37 CFR 1.143) and (ii) identification of the claims encompassing the elected species, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered nonresponsive unless accompanied by an election.

4. The election of the species may be made with or without traverse. To preserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the election of species requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse. Traversal must be presented at the time of election in order to be considered timely. Failure to timely traverse the requirement will result in the loss of right to petition under 37 CFR 1.144. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which of these claims are readable on the elected species.

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the species unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) of the other species.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which depend from or otherwise require all the limitations of an allowable generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141.

5. Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to SARA E. CLARK whose telephone number is (571) 270-7672. The examiner can normally be reached on Mon- Thu, 8:00 am - 5:00 pm.
